Put the Pieces Together with a career in Auto Body Repair!

The difference between a job and a career is the future it can provide.

An Auto Body Repair Technician has a variety of careers to choose from, including major and minor collision repair, unit body alignment, job estimating, and paint technician-- or, in a smaller shop, all of the above.

Auto Body Technicians are employed throughout the United States, and they will be needed in ever-increasing numbers in the '90s, as the number of automobiles on the road increases.

Graduates of Dodge City Community College's Auto Body Repair Program enjoy job security, good salaries, and an exciting and challenging occupation.

Program instruction includes both shop and classroom situations, with the majority of time devoted to actual hands-on experience. Students are allowed to progress at their own pace through individualized competency-based education. Job placement assistance is available to successful program completers.

If Auto Body Repair is a career you'd like to explore, call or write Admissions at Dodge City Community College, or return the attached card today for more information.

Scholarships and financial aid are available to qualified applicants.
